

ABSTRACT

A series of locks are described for preventing child access to cupboards and the like. The locks are preferably concealed and are opened by a proximity of a remote actuator, for example a magnet actuating a reed switch. An override or master switch
5 may also be used to open all locks, for example, for a set period while emptying a dishwasher.